DESCRIPTION:
Death, grief and funerary practices are central to any analysis of social, anthropological, artistic and religious worlds. However, cemeteries – the key conceptual and physical site for death – have rarely been the focus of archaeological research. Prioritizing Death and Society examines the structure, organisation and significance of cemeteries in the Southern Levant, one of the key areas for both migration and settlement in both prehistory and antiquity.

Spanning 6,000 years, from the Chalcolithic to the present day, Prioritizing Death and Society presents new research to analyse the formation and regional variation in cemeteries. By examining both ancient and present-day – nationally Jewish – cemeteries, the study reveals the commonalities and differences in the ways in which death has been and continues to be ritualised, memorialised and understood.

REVIEWS:
"A much-needed analysis of the rich dataset for Chalcolithic burials. Comparative analysis of more recent cemeteries highlights aspects of Chalcolithic activity that might otherwise have escaped comment. Nativ has made an important contribution: it deserves a wide audience." – Graham Philip, University of Durham
“Prioritizing Death and Society elegantly illustrates the power of the comparative approach and the methods of archaeology to generate new insights into human societies of the past and present. This book is essential reading for all archaeologists.” – Katina T. Lillios, University of Iowa, USA

"In this disciplined, boundary-transgressing study, Nativ offers archaeologists a profoundly thoughtful gift, showing how material discourses and negotiations surrounding death reveal deep truths about the societies that produced them." – Raphael Greenberg, Tel Aviv University, Israel

AUTHOR BIO:
Assaf Nativ is a post-doctoral fellow in the Zinman Institute of Archaeology, University of Haifa, and is a staff member in the publication project of the Iron Age Fortress Mound at Tel Arad, Israel.

CONTENTS:
Part I Introduction
1. Introduction
2. Binary Oppositions, Logical Gaps and Thick descriptions
Part II Chalcolithic Cemeteries
3. Chalcolithic Cemeteries: Winks, Twitches and Faked Twitches
4. Isolated in the Landscape: Single-Cave Cemeteries
5. Multiple Components: Multiple-Cave Cemeteries
6. Dark, Damp and Deep: Karstic-Cave Systems
7. Funerary Structures
8. Exceptions, Outliers and Misfits
9. Structured Deposition and Depositional Structures
Part III Contemporary Cemeteries
10. An Archaeology of Us
11. The Raw Materials: From Matt to Lustre, from Grey to Colour
12. Tombstone Morphology: Communal Trajectories
13. Tombstone Elaboration: Personal Expressions
14. Spatial Patterns: Between Institutional Policy and Interpersonal Spontaneity
15. Intersecting Discourses
Part IV Conclusion
16. Prioritizing Death and Society
17. Epilogue
Appendix: Gazetteers of Cemeteries
1. Netzah Cemetery
2. Trumpeldor Cemetery
3. Morasha Cemetery
4. Shiqun Vatiqim Cemetery
5. Ma’abarot Cemetery
6. Yaqum Cemetery
7. Ben Tzion Cemetery
8. Qiryat Sha’ul Cemetery
Bibliography